Sorry it is late.

Write me a story... It was fun before it turned around. ;)

Once there was a little girl named Sarah. Her dad and her went to her uncle's farm because the mother was gone on a business trip and the family felt lonely. Fishing was her favorite hobby. She fished while her dad and uncle raked the leaves. While she fished she gave some of her fish to the cats. She was really friendly. Not like her uncle and dad. They put the leaves they raked on fire harming the environment. Sarah did not like it. After when the two went to fetch Sarah they had noticed that the fire grew bigger and a lot of flames were spreading. In that night everything grew dark only some things were able to be seen.
Don't Harm The Environment!!
