

Monday
November
8, 2011

Jeanyne

Remembrance Day

→ There was an girl named Sam once her grandmother gave her a poppy Sam wanted to know a lot of stuff. She loved playing with her grandmother she was feeling really sad because she thought that the soldiers where going to loose so she drank a cup of water after a little while she wasn't feeling sad at all. She went with grandmother for a walk she took her poppy after her grandmother told her why people wear poppy's her grandmother told her at her house. When she told her she out of the window and she saw some soldiers they where in a line when they went to fight the bad people the soldiers can't find any poppy because they where hard to find. All the soldiers lost the baddle.